

Zoya Cherkassky | Children's illustration

4.10.2018 – 10.11.2018

An exhibition of paintings from two children's books, illustrated by Zoya Cherkassky will be displayed in the gallery's projects room:

"Poems for Bright Kids" by Meir Wieseltier, published by Achuzat Bayit, 2018.

"Will Our Cat Ever Love Us?" By Galia Oz, published by Kinneret Zmora-Bitan, 2018.

"'Poems for Bright Kids' is a book of poems for children in album format, a collaboration between two artists: the famous poet Meir Wieseltier and the successful painter Zoya Cherkassky. The spectacular result includes beautiful poems in first publication, accompanied by enchanting colorful paintings." (Ahuzat Bayit Books, 2018)

"Zoya is to me like the great masters, she is a natural force. Her works are full of grace and cheerfulness, but they are also radical, as great art should be. I reckoned that children are entitled to meet these qualities as well. [...] Fortunately, she loved the story, and her interpretation was funny and accurate right from the first sketch. I told her: I wrote the story with words, now it's yours, write it in paintings. [...] I was anticipating to receiving the illustrations to my mailbox, and each one was a blast of beauty and emotion." (Galia Oz in an interview to Masha Zur-Glozman, Haaretz, November 2017)
